

JACKSONVILLE, ILLINOIS, THURSDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 10, 1904.

THE REPUBLICAN SWEEP

VICTORY GROWS AS FURTHER RETURNS COME IN

Greatest Plurality Ever Given Candidate for President—Roosevelt's Plurality Will Exceed 1,500,000—Missouri Goes Republican on National Ticket—Electoral Vote Stands: Roosevelt 343; Parker 133.

New York, Nov. 9.—With the election returns still incomplete, Roosevelt's plurality in the nation, according to all indications to night, will exceed 1,500,000—the greatest ever given an American candidate. The nearest approach was in 1896, when McKinley received a plurality approximating 850,000, and in 1872, when Grant received 702,991.

To night interest centers in Missouri and Maryland. Late returns indicate that the former state is in the Republican column so far as presidential electors are concerned, but that James W. Folk, Democrat, has been elected governor.

In Maryland the presidential vote will probably be cast for Roosevelt. In other states it is simply a question of pluralities. The "solid south" was broken by the probable defection of Missouri, this section of the country usually having thirteen states in the Democratic column. Figures to night show but twelve states, with 133 votes for Parker. Roosevelt carried all the northern states—except them, in fact—and to night he has 343 electoral votes.

The banner state is Pennsylvania, where Roosevelt's plurality is 485,412. Next came New York state, where the president polled approximately 174,000 votes more than Parker. New York city returns are still incomplete, but the amazement over the result has not subsided. Parker carried Greater New York by nearly 41,000 votes.

In general, the situation is chiefly interesting to night because of the fact that tickets in many states were out. Roosevelt ran ahead of his ticket in many localities, notably Massachusetts, where he secured a plurality of 86,000, while the Republican candidate for governor was defeated by 35,000. In that state the legislature is Republican and the entire Republican ticket with the exception of governor is elected.

In Missouri circumstances are similar. In Nebraska the indefinite announcement that the legislature is Republican disposes of the statement that Bryan had aspirations for the senatorship. In that state, too, the governorship is in doubt and it will require the official returns to determine who is elected.

There is a curious situation in Minnesota, where Roosevelt secured 125,000 plurality, but where the Democratic governor and Republican lieutenant governor were elected. The election of a Democratic governor is the second in the history of the state. Chairman Babcock, of the Republican congressional committee, has been returned to congress from Wisconsin, but Chairman Cowherd, of the Democratic congressional committee, was defeated in Missouri.

The situation in Colorado presents an interesting phase to night. Roosevelt carried the state by probably 150,000, but the governorship is still in doubt.

ILLINOIS.
Chicago, Nov. 9.—Returns from the state outside of Chicago steadily increase the plurality for Roosevelt. Figures to night show he has carried the state by over 200,000 and Denver for governor by 274,000. Roosevelt carried Chicago by 107,225 and the county outside the city by 16,182, making his total plurality in Cook county 123,407. In 1900 forty-two counties in the state went Democratic by 21,716. This year the same counties show a Republican plurality of 4,675, twenty-two of them going Republican and the remainder remaining Democratic.

Calhoun county went for Roosevelt by a plurality of one vote. The Republicans made heavy gains in the legislature and will have a majority of sixty on joint ballot. The Republicans gained six congressmen, the Democrats retaining but two districts in the state. Rainey in the twentieth and Foster in the twenty-third.

WISCONSIN.
Milwaukee, Nov. 9.—The result of the election in Wisconsin shows Roosevelt carried the state by a plurality of 75,000. Governor LaFollette is re-elected by over 50,000 and the congressional complexion remains unchanged from two years ago. The legislature, which will elect a senator to succeed Quarles, is largely Republican, and the primary election law carried by a safe majority. The Social Democrats elected four assemblymen and one senator.

In the legislature Chairman Connor of the LaFollette committee claims there will be a majority in each house pledged to carry out measures advocated by LaFollette.

Chairman Golden of the stalwart faction claims the stalwarts and Democrats combined will control a majority in each house and he predicts if Quarles is not re-elected the legislature will probably find itself in a deadlock.

Perhaps the greatest surprise was the narrow margin through which his plurality of 8,000 two years ago being cut down to about 300. This was caused through the war of the state administration on him. Revised returns at 1 o'clock Thursday morning give Roosevelt a plurality of 130,000.

A question has been raised as to whether the primary election law applied by the voters yesterday shall apply to election of United States senator to succeed Quarles. A number of attorneys express belief it does and an election must be held before Jan. 1. Others, however, take the opposite view.

NEW YORK.
New York, Nov. 9.—According to revised returns of the state Roosevelt's plurality over Parker is 374,831. Higgins for governor over Herlick, 76,822.

MINNESOTA.
St. Paul, Nov. 9.—When all returns shall have been received it is estimated Roosevelt's plurality will run close to 125,000, if not more. Estimates made to date from incomplete returns indicate 100,000. Republicans elected the entire nine congressmen and all the state ticket, except governor, including the legislature.

MASSACHUSETTS.
Boston, Nov. 9.—Massachusetts complete gives Roosevelt a plurality of 86,273, and Douglass, Dem., governor, 35,710.

MONTANA.
Butte, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt has carried Montana by 5,390. Governor Toole, Dem., is elected by 800 majority. The balance of the state Republican ticket is elected and the next legislature will be overwhelmingly Republican.

NORTH CAROLINA.
Raleigh, Nov. 9.—Parker carried North Carolina by 60,000. All congressional districts are Democratic except the eighth, which is still in doubt.

OREGON.
Portland, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's plurality in Oregon will probably exceed 40,000. The question of prohibition was overwhelmingly defeated.

NEBRASKA.
Omaha, Nov. 9.—Probably complete returns will be required to determine the governorship of Nebraska. Outside of the governor, however, the Republicans have made a clean sweep on national, state, congressional and legislative tickets. Roosevelt's plurality is probably 75,000.

While not conceding defeat in so many words, the fusion managers here admitted to night that on the face of returns the Republicans carried everything, including the head of the state ticket. No figures were offered by the fusionists, but figures elsewhere indicate Governor McKinley's plurality is 9,000.

COLORADO.
Denver, Nov. 9.—Impartial estimates based on latest returns indicate Roosevelt's plurality in Colorado is about 20,000. Adams, Dem., will have at least 50,000 plurality over Peabody, Rep., for governor. Returns on scratched ballots, estimated at more than 50,000 in the state, are coming in slowly. Peabody loses many counties which had always been considered Republican.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Nov. 9.—Frank P. Mannix, Democratic county clerk and recorder, has disappeared. It is reported a committee of citizens has taken him out of town and ordered him to leave the district permanently. Sheriff Ball and a posse have gone in pursuit of the mob. Democrats are arming in expectation of further trouble. Republicans allege ballot boxes were being tampered with in the county clerk's office and that Mannix was run out of town on this account.

MARYLAND.
Baltimore, Nov. 9.—Returns received from all counties in Maryland except two show a plurality for Roosevelt of 1,110. The two missing counties have large negro populations, the returns of which will almost certainly increase the foregoing figures.

NEVADA.
Reno, Nov. 9.—Incomplete returns indicate a complete Republican victory, with congressmen only in doubt. Roosevelt's estimated plurality will exceed 2,000.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.
Concord, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt carried the state by about 20,000. McLean, Rep., defeated Hollis, Dem., for governor by 15,000. Republicans have a large majority in the legislature.

MISSOURI.
St. Louis, Nov. 9.—Incomplete returns show Roosevelt has broken the "solid south" by carrying Missouri for the Republicans for the first time in thirty years. His plurality probably will exceed 12,000. Republicans also gain seven congressmen. Semi-official returns show four-fourteen Republican majority in the legislature. Folk, Dem., for governor, probably has a safe majority.

WEST VIRGINIA.
Wheeling, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's majority in the state is estimated at 30,000; Dawson, Rep., for governor, 15,000. All five congressmen are Republican.

CONNECTICUT.
New Haven, Nov. 9.—Revised returns from every city and town give Roosevelt a plurality of 38,397. McKinley defeated Bryan by 26,168. The Republican state ticket and congressmen are elected. The legislature is overwhelmingly Republican.

CALIFORNIA.
San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's majority will be in the neighborhood of 60,000. Probably eight congressmen will be Republican. The legislature is Republican by a large majority.

NEW JERSEY.
Trenton, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's plurality will reach 90,000. Stokes, Rep., for governor defeated Black, Dem., by 60,000. The representation in congress will consist of nine Republicans and one Democrat.

DELAWARE.
Wilmington, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's plurality will be over 4,000. The Republicans elected three congressmen and will have sixteen majority in the legislature. This probably will mean election of Addicks as United States senator.

PENNSYLVANIA.
Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt's majority in the state will reach 400,000. The Republicans probably have elected thirty-one of thirty-two congressmen and will have a majority of 225 in the legislature.

UTAH.
Salt Lake, Nov. 9.—Roosevelt carried the state by a plurality of over 12,000. Pugh-Philadelphus (Republican) defeated (Democrat) Pugh-Philadelphus.

OHIO.
Columbus, Nov. 9.—Almost complete official returns to night indicate a Republican plurality in Ohio of 215,000.

TENNESSEE.
Nashville, Nov. 9.—Secretary Tuck of the Republican committee concedes the state to the Democrats by 15,000.

FROM EMPEROR WILLIAM.
Washington, Nov. 9.—President Roosevelt received the following cablegram from Emperor William:

"Sincere congratulations: may heaven give you courage and may your good administration be happy and prosperous to the American people."

JUDGE EPARKER.
Esopus, N. Y., Nov. 9.—An hour after Judge Parker arose to day he was out on his farm seeing that ploughing was properly done.

DEED ON PARKER AND SUICIDE.
Sterling, Ill., Nov. 9.—William Mayer, of Mount Carroll, who lost his home by betting on Parker, committed suicide to day by hanging.

CUBANS PLEASED.
Havana, Nov. 9.—Leading Cubans are gratified with President Roosevelt's victory, considering Roosevelt the warmest and most influential friends of Cuba.

TREASURER ROBBED.
Prescott, Ariz., Nov. 9.—James P. Stroom, county treasurer, was to day found bound and gagged and locked in the vault of his office. The treasurer had been robbed of $15,000.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY.
Take Advantage of the Offer Made by Hatch.

In these times when living expenses have increased from 30 to 50 per cent, it is unusual to hear of a standard remedy being offered at less.

Yet that is the way Hatch, the popular druggist, is selling Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation. In addition to selling a 50 cent bottle, containing a month's treatment of sixty doses, for 25 cents, he gives his personal guarantee with every bottle he sells to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

This unusual offer has brought hundreds of customers to his store in the last few weeks, yet out of the many bottles of Dr. Howard's specific he has sold, but one customer has asked to have the money returned. This was done without any questions, although he does not think the remedy could have been given a fair trial.

Doctor's bills can be saved by the use of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of dyspepsia and constipation, and by taking advantage of this special price introductory offer, our readers can save half the regular price of the specific.

BRYAN SPEAKS OF ELECTION

WHAT LED TO DEMOCRATIC DEFEAT

Says Result Was Attempt of Party to Be Too Conservative—Urges Party to Prepare for Campaign of 1908.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 9.—William J. Bryan to night gave out a statement concerning the election which is intended to serve as his comment on the result and as answer to reports connecting him with a movement looking to the formation of a new party.

Bryan says Parker's defeat should not be considered a personal one. "He was the victim of unfavorable conditions and of a mistaken party policy," he said. "The so-called conservative Democrats charged the defeats of 1896-1900 to the party's position on the money question and insisted victory could be won by dropping the coinage question entirely. The convention accepted of this theory and the platform made no reference to the money question, but Parker felt it was his duty to announce his personal adherence to the gold standard. His gold telegram, as it was called, while embarrassing to Democrats of the west and south, was applauded by the eastern press. He had the cardinal endorsement of Cleveland, who certified the party had returned to safety and sanity; he had the support of Democratic papers which bolted in 1896 and hence had the aid of nearly all of those who were prominent in the campaigns of 1896 and 1900, and yet his defeat is apparently greater than the party suffered in either of those years."

Bryan calls attention to reorganizers being in complete control and that they had the support of those who left the party the two previous campaigns—as well as those who remained with it then. Silver, he says, cannot be blamed for the defeat, nor can it be charged to the condemnation of trusts, for trusts were as usual as more vigorously four years ago. It is evident the campaign did not turn upon the question of imperialism. The result, he says, was due to the Democratic party attempting to be too conservative in the presence of conditions which demand radical reforms. It should part retreat, when it should have ordered a charge all along the line. He urges the Republicans had the support of the plough and said:

"The Democratic party has nothing to gain by entering to organized and predatory wealth. It must not only do without such support, but it can strengthen itself by inviting the open and emphatic opposition of those elements. The Democratic party, if it hopes to win success, must take the side of the common people."

"The election," says Bryan, has opened the eyes of hundreds of thousands of well-meaning Democrats who a few months ago favored reorganization of the party. These men now see they must either go into the Republican party or join with Democrats of the west and south into making the Democratic party a positive, aggressive and progressive reform organization. There is no middle ground. He urges the Democratic party to be put once more upon a fighting basis and promises to assist in organizing for the campaign in 1908. The party, he says, must protest against a large army and navy, favor Filipino independence, oppose high tariff, renew the demand for an income tax, maintain a position in favor of bimetalism.

The trust question, Bryan says, presents the most acute phase of the contest between democracy and plutocracy, so far as economic issues are concerned. After taking up the allegation trusts contributed to the Republican campaign and intimating that he did so, Bryan declares it will be to the advantage of the Democratic party if it will begin the next campaign with the announcement no trust contributions will be accepted and then prove its sincerity by giving the public access to its contribution list. "Death to every private monopoly" must be the slogan of the party in this question and any other position is surrender, says Bryan.

Bryan urges the party to continue defense of the interests of wage earners and protect them from the encroachment of capital. Among reforms he urges government ownership of public utilities and election of postmasters by the community. Concluding he says:

"With malice toward none and charity for all," let us begin the campaign of 1908; let us appeal to the moral sentiment of the country and arrange the policies of the Republican party before the bar of public conscience.

DENIAL BY BRYAN.
Lincoln, Nov. 9.—William J. Bryan to day denied he would meet William Randolph Hearst and Thomas E. Watson in New York a week hence for the purpose of taking steps toward the organization of a new party.

CONGRESSMEN.
Chicago, Nov. 9.—Returns received by the Associated Press from congressional districts to day show 230 Republicans and 111 Democrats are elected, with six missing.

AT PORT ARTHUR

All Japanese Attacks Repulsed up to November 7th.

Chefoo, Nov. 9.—A junk, which left Port Arthur Nov. 7, brings news that the garrison up to that time had repulsed all Japanese attacks. The junk was intercepted by a Japanese torpedo boat, which confiscated all correspondents on board. Two Chinese who were on the junk were executed by the Japanese.

London, Nov. 9.—The Telegraph's Chefoo correspondent declares the task of burying the dead at Port Arthur is beyond control and that corpses are simply pitched into the new dock excavations near Golden Hill, and where there is only a few feet of water. The condition of women is heartrending. Several groups of them going to market have been blown to pieces. The street scenes are said to be sickening.

Bennett Burleigh also sends to the Telegraph a harrowing picture of the condition of the wounded in Port Arthur, of whom vast numbers are lying unattended within the inner forts. In the name of common humanity, he thinks, some effort should be made in behalf of the helpless sufferers.

Tokio, Nov. 9.—It is reported the Japanese have completely silenced forts on Rihlung and Ussung mountains and that the main strength is now attacking Base mountain.

Chefoo, Nov. 9.—Japanese continue to bombard Port Arthur. Shells are falling so incessantly the Russians have practically abandoned repair work and protecting the harbor. So many men have been killed on both sides during the last assault that many bodies lay unburied for days and in some instances dogs scavenged their hunger by eating the dead. Chinese say the forts on Golden Hill have done practically no firing for months past and it is believed their ammunition has run short. Demolition of the Chinese new town is almost complete. Thousands of houses were destroyed for the valuable firewood they contained.

WAR REPORTS.
St. Petersburg, Nov. 9.—There is great rejoicing here at the failure of recent Japanese attacks on Port Arthur and the conviction prevails Stoeness will never surrender and that if the fortress falls the garrison will go down fighting. According to information received at the war office 500 is a low estimate of Japanese losses before Port Arthur.

ARBITRATION.
Washington, Nov. 9.—Ambassador Sternberg was at the state department to day and it is understood he is prepared to proceed at once with the German arbitration treaties. The Italian and Swiss treaties are almost complete.

Robbed Himself.
A story which recalls Thomas Ingoldsby's "Spectre of Tappington" comes from the German town of Tullingen. A certain jeweler of the town complained to the police that his house was burglarized nearly every night and that they had better do something about it. A detective was set to watch the shop, and he caught the thief, who, as the astute reader has already guessed, was the jeweler himself. "He was a somnambulist. It seems a pity that a talent for burglary should be wasted on one's own property."

Breaking Into Jail.
A German cripple has succeeded in beating the Kaiser's government in a clever way. He recently wandered into a police station, borrowed a pencil and piece of paper and wrote something against the Kaiser, handed it to the desk man and was arrested for lese majesty at once. This was what he wanted. "He had been in jail for nine terms for similar offenses and said he found jail more comfortable than the poor-house."

Time and Telegraphy.
Investigations by the Prussian academy to determine the difference of longitude between Greenwich and Potsdam showed that signals could be sent over the ordinary route of about 744 miles with relays in one eighth-hundredth of a second. Over a lengthened line, including 680 miles of overland wires and 264 of cable, without relays, signals were sent in one fourteen-hundredth of a second.

A Howells Retort.
W. D. Howells, the novelist, seldom fails when any one has undervalued on his competence to come out with a neat retort. When Mr. Howells was consul at Venice a very lean and long American said to him one day jocosely, "If I were as fat as you I'd go and hang myself."

"Well," said Mr. Howells, "if I ever take your advice I'll use you for a rope."

STATEMENT BY JUDGE PARKER

CONCERNING ELECTION AND FUTURE OF PARTY

Says Democrats in Near Future Have Great Mission—Speaks of Tariff Fed Trusts and Illegal Combinations.

Esopus, Nov. 9.—Judge Parker to night gave out a statement concerning the election and the future of the Democratic party. After expressing gratitude to those who assisted him in the campaign and saying that he accepted the nomination because he thought it his duty to do so, Parker says:

"The party has in the near future a great mission. Before long the people will realize tariff-fed trusts and illegal combinations are absorbing the wealth of the nation. Then they will wish to throw off these leeches, but the Republican party will not aid them to do it. For its leaders appreciate too well the uses to which money of trusts can be put in political campaigns. When that time comes, and come it will, the people will turn to the Democratic party for relief, and the party should be ready with an organization of patriotic citizens covering every election district, who are willing to work for the dove of the cause—an organization supported by as many towns, its, county and state officers as we are able to elect meantime."

"We entered this canvass with every northern, western and eastern state, save one, in Republican control. This gave the party a large army of officeholders, reaching into every hamlet, many of whom gladly followed the example set for them by members of the president's cabinet in devoting their time and services to the party. To accomplish much in this direction, however, we must forget the difficulties of the past. If any one suspects his neighbor of treachery, let him not hint of his suspicion. If he knows he has deserted under him not tell it. Our forces have been weakened by divisions. We have quarrelled at times over immaterials. If we would help the people, if we would furnish an organization through which they may be relieved of a party that has grown so corrupt that it will gladly enter into partnership with trusts to secure money for election purposes, we must forget differences of the past and begin this day to build up where ever it may be needed a broad and effective organization. And we must by constant teaching, through the press and from the platform, apprise the people of the way the vicious tariff circle works. We must bring home to them at other than election times the fact that money contributed to the Republican party by trusts is not only dishonest money, but it is given that the trusts may, without hindrance, take much larger sums from the people."

"In the presence of defeat that would take away all personal ambitions were it true that otherwise it possessed me, I do not hesitate to say that in my opinion the greatest moral question which now confronts us is: Shall trusts and corporations be prevented from contributing money to control or to aid in controlling elections? Such service as I can render in that or any other direction will be gladly received and I beg the co-operation of fellow workers of every Democrat in the country."

RELEASED ON BOND.
Reno, Nov. 9.—Richard Higgins, charged with the murder of Mrs. Alice Thompson of Lacey, was to day released on bonds of $15,000 on habeas corpus proceedings.

Some English Laws.
Some of the acts of parliament at one time in effect were of curious interest. There was the famous act passed in the reign of Charles II. against Sunday trading, which was until recently put into force regularly once a week at Yarmouth, where an honest trader came up every Monday morning "like a man" and paid a fine of 7 shillings. When there was the Birmingham "metal button act." That was an extraordinary statute, and under it payment of a debt was recently resisted on the ground that, according to its provisions, every suit of clothes supplied by a tailor must have upon it metal buttons.

LORD LANSDOWNE

Makes Strong Plan for Peace and Arbitration.

London, Nov. 9.—Lord Lansdowne at the lord mayor's banquet to night made a strong plea for peace and arbitration on behalf of the British government. Lansdowne pointed out that arbitration was the only way in which the North Sea dispute with Russia could have been equitably settled and almost in the same breath drew a vivid picture of the horrors of the struggle now proceeding in the far east. Between the lines of every reference to the Russo-Japanese war was an urgent plea, amounting almost in the main that it might be settled by arbitration. It was a carefully prepared statement made before what is considered the most representative gathering of the leading men of Great Britain. As such it was generally interpreted as a bolder bid for intervention than has yet emanated from any neutral power.

SENATOR FAIRBANKS
Vice President-Elect Flooded With Congratulatory Telegrams

Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—Senator Fairbanks to day received a flood of telegrams, one of the earliest being a cablegram from John K. Cowley, consul general at Paris. He received many others during the day. Speaking of the result of the election, he said:

"It is a notable victory, one of the greatest victories that has been achieved in American politics. It is a victory for right principles over wrong ones. It is a victory for principles of the Republican party, and for the magnificent administration of Theodore Roosevelt. The American people are great people, and when they think upon great practical questions their judgments are righteous altogether. I am gratified with the results in many of the states of the union, but it is needless for me to say I am most gratified with the magnificent patriotism manifested by Indiana. But we should not remember, debate has closed, the verdict has been rendered and we all now settle back to our duties as citizens of this great republic and to our duties to one another."

NEW WARSHIPS.
Washington, Nov. 9.—Three battle-ships, five scout cruisers, six torpedo boat destroyers, six torpedo boats and two squadron colliers to cost $41,300,000 is the building program which the general board of the navy has recommended the secretary of the navy to urge congress to authorize at its next session.

SOCIALIST VOTE.
New York, Nov. 9.—National Secretary Mailli, Socialist, places Del's total vote at 600,000. He says Illinois leads with 75,000, of which 42,000 were cast in Chicago. He names a number of cities where the Socialist vote increased, among them: Omaha, Minneapolis and Davenport.

FAIRMEN'S INSTITUTES.
The following county Farmers' institutes will hold meetings in the month of November:

Nov. 11-12—Greenville, Bond county.

Nov. 14-15—Waterloo, Monroe county.

Nov. 14-15-16—Mt. Carmel, Wabash county.

Nov. 15-16—Jerseyville, Jersey county.

Nov. 16-17—Whitehall, Greene county.

Nov. 15-16—Harrisburg, Saline county.

Nov. 15-16—New Athens, St. Clair county.

ELECTION ECHOES.

There were two sets of surprised people on the streets yesterday—the Republicans and the Democrats—and it was impossible to tell which was the more astonished.

The individual who "told you so" in this time conspicuous by his absence and he will not appear for some time to come.

The war is over, however, and all are going to take it philosophically and make the best of it. All are agreed that the result places Bryan most completely in the saddle and that Cleveland, Hill & Co. will truly retire to innocent desuetude.

There was never a cheaper campaign on a presidential year. The managers had little money to spend and the result showed they had little use for it.

It was rather ungracious in the Courier to say that John Hay would regulate Roosevelt's conscience and England would issue Hay's orders. The war is over now and our friend should have learned by this time that base and untrue charges don't pay. Their "wooden Indian" candidate tried it and it proved a fearful boomerang.

Of course, there are lots of workers who are ready to claim all the glory nearly every time, but the thing is too big this time and all they can do is to rub their eyes and try to ascertain whether they are awake or asleep and dreaming a dream from which there will be a rude awakening.

The strenuous friends of Bryan and Hearst are trying their best to look sad and disappointed, but the effort is a dismal failure. The satisfaction of saying "I told you so" is not small and now they are getting ready to take the reins and order the "reorganizers" to the rear.

Anyhow the Democrats know how the Republicans felt in 1884 and 1892.

A POLICEMAN'S TESTIMONY.

J. N. Patterson, night policeman of Nashua, Ia., writes: "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at last a half dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and two-thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world. Sold by J. A. Obermeyer, City Drug Store."

William H. Lange of Rock Island, accomplished a feat at the world's fair which has brought him into prominence over the country in the barber world. At the fair there was a contest open to all tonsorial artists of the country and a prize of $1,500 split up into several different prizes for the barber who could give a head for the barber who would shave a man and give a man a hair cut in the shortest space of time and let the work speak for itself. Mr. Lange won over all and drew first prize. He shaved a man and cut his hair in twelve and one-half minutes.

There is no cough medicine so popular as Foley's Honey and Tar. It contains no opiates or poisons and never fails to cure. For sale by J. A. Obermeyer, City Drug Store.

The greater number of J. Capps & Sons' salesmen will go out on their respective territories this week. Among those from this city who will go are George Waters, G. A. Smith, P. G. Capps, M. V. Perry, E. B. Smith, C. C. Capps and G. H. Seurlack.

MISSIONARY LETTER

Rev. Herbert P. Shaw Tells of His Experiences in the Foreign Field of China.

Kuling, China, Aug. 22, 1904.—Christian Church, Jacksonville, Ill., U. S. A.—Dear Brethren and Sisters: You no doubt have been wondering why you have not heard from me for so long. Perhaps just a word will suffice. About the time I should have written my regular letter I went way into the northern part of our province on an itinerating trip and to investigate concerning a suitable place to open a new station. We were gone a month and rode over 400 miles on horseback through mud and water, over swollen streams and amidst perils of the natives. Withal the trip was one long to be remembered, and one by which I gained much experience. I never should have known otherwise.

Perhaps a few of our experiences on that trip will be interesting to you and I will repeat them as I have them written down in my diary. Traveling in China is not what it is in your midst. In our neighborhood we have no comfortable railway coaches, running at the rate of thirty to sixty miles per hour, but rather must travel about the speed of a man's walking gait. One can ride a horse if he has one, or a donkey; ride in a sedan chair, or walk. These several modes comprise the customary traveler's choice—save perhaps a litter, a contrivance swung between two mules in tandem style. This latter, however, is only for those who do not have to count the dollars, for it is an expensive way of traveling.

It was with no uncertain fears and misgivings that my dear wife gave her permission to go on such a long journey, leaving her behind in the midst of a great heathen city, far from civilization and with but two foreign men for miles and miles, save Brother Titus and myself, and we each day going farther and farther away. We left Chow Fu about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, May 2. Brother Titus rode a little pony. I had a somewhat larger one and was better outfitted than he because of the gift of a fine saddle given me by some of the brethren just before we left Jacksonville. We had three mules as "coolies." One carried our bedding, down up in oiled cloth made by the Chinese; another carried lunch two containing tins of milk; butter in tins, bread, some coffee, grape nuts brought from America and other articles of like nature in tins and packages, which would not spoil. The third carried books—gospels and tracts—such as we could sell to the Chinese while enroute. A fourth man also accompanied us—a Chinaman who could act as guide, interpreter, and also as preacher of no mean ability. Thus our little cavalcade of six started under a hot sun, out toward a country seldom traveled by foreigners.

I will not attempt to give you a detailed description of our trip and yet want to give you some idea, if possible, of what traveling in China really means. We went out the "west water gate" of the city—out through a great high stone wall, across a moat and were into the country. In this part of China the roads are not paved, nor macadamized, nor graded, nor anything else, save mere cow paths among the rice fields. We had to travel single file, there being no room for two.

There were two sets of surprised people on the streets yesterday—the Republicans and the Democrats—and it was impossible to tell which was the more astonished.

her Titus and I to ride side by side. We had only gone one and two-thirds miles when the coolie carrying the bedding said he could go no further. "It was very tired." Now I know your sympathies are aroused at once and you feel as though we were cruel to ask a man to carry our blankets, etc. To one who has never seen the Chinese carrying it may seem so, but they know no other way. I saw a wheel barrow, clumsily constructed, and it is the business and life of the great mass of coolies in China, earning "cents of burden" for their low creatures. To have gone otherwise would have deprived the man of a livelihood and to have hired donkeys would have been an expense too great to meet. Our coolie was not so tired, as that he showed the prevailing trait of the Chinese, to get a body in the middle of the stream, so to speak, and set him down unless more money is promised to get out. We had not paid our man anything, however, so told him if he would not go on the distance he had already come. With this he picked up his bundles and started off as good natured as you please. The Chinese are good philosophers as a rule. If they can get the best of a body if they can, but once realizing the other man has the upper hand they accept the situation gracefully and go on as though nothing had happened.

We did not go very far that first afternoon. By dusk (7:30 o'clock) we had gone six and two-thirds miles. (The Chinese distances are recorded by "lis," pronounced "le"). A li is about one-third of a mile, hence the one-thirds—and I was to take my first introduction to a Chinese inn, or "rice shop," as a literal translation would be. I wish I could describe it to you as it really was, but it would be impossible to describe that place to a mixed audience. We had been riding in a beautiful twilight, just as beautiful as Illinois ever saw, and had we been traveling in Illinois would probably have "pitched" a little tent, soon had a fire, boiling water and a few eggs for our supper. But not so China. Were we to pitch a tent anywhere it would have to be guarded by a regiment of soldiers, for the natives are very suspicious and would demolish tent, baggage, people and all were one outside the confines of an inn. Then again, there is another reason why a missionary cannot use a tent, beside the reason of suspicion already mentioned, and that is the hatred of and for the foreigner.

There seems no question but what there is a pronounced hatred of the foreigners, especially among the uneducated men of the interior. A great fear of the officials, however, acts as a safety valve and makes it comparatively safe traveling when one travels in Chinese style. When an inn keeper permits a guest to cross his threshold that inn keeper becomes responsible for the safety of his guests: safety against both robbery and bodily harm. You can readily see how much safer one is when inside an inn than when in a tent out along side the road, where no one could be held responsible. Again, in speaking of the former reason—Suspicion. One can quickly see how little real good could be done in preaching or teaching if the people were suspicious beyond measure. On the contrary the inn is the "corner grocery store," where the people congregate to hear "some new thing" of the travelers. And while one hates to leave God's pure air for the foul odors and impurities of a Chinese inn, still it is the only way of hearing to reach the hearts of the people. But some one says: Can you expect to preach to a people who have hatred in their hearts? Perhaps I should not have used the word hatred, because it does not fully describe the attitude of those at least, whose country we passed with two or three exceptions, and then we found perhaps the greatest hatred. But as a rule the Chinese have been told such awful stories about the "foreign devils," their fear is almost fanatical. For example, mothers have been told that the foreign devil steals the eyes of the children to make medicine. So great is this superstition woven into their minds I have seen them cover the eyes of their little ones right near our Lu Chow fu home, where foreigners have been for years. This is but one of many, many tales that are told until the great mass of interior people fear the foreigner to such an extent they need but a small matter to put them into a fury. So they hate because they fear. But when once the fear is overcome and they understand the true purpose of the missionary they listen with rapt attention. And while they are quick to fear, they are as eager to listen and will crowd around to hear what one has to say.

It is said of the cattle on the western plains that they respect and fear a cowboy when upon his pony, but let him once get down off his horse and begin to walk across the prairie the cattle are terrified even to a stampede. This seems to illustrate pretty well the Chinese attitude toward the foreigner, and I am speaking now of the great mass of ignorant, ignorant men and women. So long as one goes amongst them, behaving himself and observing their customs, talking with them, drinking tea with them, etc., they gladly listen and are respectful. They will buy the gospels and tracts as fast as one can hand them out, almost eager to learn concerning the new thing.

But now a few words descriptive of that first experience in an inn. The floor of the inn was good old mother earth, which in wet, muddy weather itself becomes very muddy and miserable. Well, we went into the inn and asked for some hot water. The water was heated in the same pots in which they cook their rice, the meat and everything else, so when the water was brought we accepted the "rice water," etc., at the bottom of it.

(as the Chinese would say) there being no other plan. We had a table placed, where we finally had our coffee and bread and butter. I wish I could give you some conception of that first night. Before I had been able to take one bite the crowd had come in. On the two sides of the table opposite Brother Titus and myself were dozens of dirty-faced, ill-smelling, wretchedly kept, poor heathen mortals, leaning forward with eyes and mouth both open, to see what the "foreign devils" were eating. Not only on those two sides of the table, but behind us both and looking over our shoulders and in every vantage point was a dusky face watching intently. They were not only dirty, but many were diseased, sore eyes, great ugly, open, running sores. I was reminded many times on that trip of the statement in the Bible where it says: "And they thronged Him," and again: "They brought their sick unto Him." We had no medicine (except that carried in case of illness of either Brother Titus or myself) hence had to direct the sick to the hospital in Lu Chow fu. You can imagine perhaps how appalling all this was to a hungry traveler, and when I tell you there was not a single meal in the whole month's time, save those eaten in the houses of missionaries whose stations we visited, that were were not made the target of such curiosity as above described, you can perhaps imagine what traveling in China means, in the eating line at least. After we had eaten what we could Brother Titus sold tracts, gospels and preached to the people for a long time. They would have remained all night I suppose had the inn keeper and our strength permitted, but we finally excused ourselves and "invited" the people to leave, which was quite the proper thing from a Chinese standpoint.

Then we prepared to retire in our nice feather beds, to enjoy a good night's rest (?) We were not cramped for room in one sense, the whole place was ours. No rooms, no curtaining off, no privacy whatever. But I am getting ahead of my story somewhat. The horses could not be left outside, they must be brought in and quartered. In the corner was some straw of ancient growth. On this the men lay down, but we did not dare on account of fleas and—other vermin. Some guests were smoking opium and others being quite hilarious over their supper. The door was closed and bolted for the night. There was no chimney to the stove where cooking was still going on, and the entire place was full of smoke. There was only one door we could leave open for air, and this opened out upon a filthy court of small dimensions.

Under these conditions we made our bed, but where? There were no boards to lay our chairs or "saw-horses"—Chinese name, "Cain-dun"—which, by the way, forms one of the principal seats in all inns—a "saw-horse" such as our carpenters use at home. There were no doors, to be used in place of boards; to lay on the straw we did not dare. So there was nothing to do but put two tables together and sleep on top. The horses were not more than ten feet away; room full of smoke and opium combined, and last of all the tables so narrow. Brother Titus and I had to hold each other on. This was a typical instance of the nights in the inns, for the whole trip. Some places had less smoke than others. Some had boards we could put on the "cain-duns." And some had doors we could use, in the same way. I well remember one night in particular. We had been riding through a beautiful twilight. The moon had come up early. (The same moon by the way which you enjoy, one thing at least we have in common) and I stood on the high bank of a river, after we had finished our day's journey, drinking in the beautiful God had lavished upon that particular spot, and perhaps thinking of wife and loved ones far away. When suddenly I was startled by the noise of firecrackers and looking down upon the river, upon a crowd of Chinese junk, saw the bottom worshipping their idols. I turned away in sadness, back to the inn, to find it just full of smoke and my eyes smarted until way into the night. One thing I learned at a station of the Presbyterian brethren whom we visited enroute, at "Hwai-Tuen" (pronounced "Why-yu-ain") and that is that small beds, or folding-cots, can be gotten in San Francisco (weight, about one man's load) for just such trips as we had. The Presbyterian brethren have them, and are always assured of a comfortable cot at least when out on a preaching tour. I hope to have one before I need to make another trip next year. After I get so I can preach to these people as I want to, my trip will be much more frequent. We slept some that first night and by 6 o'clock the next morning were well on our way again. (To be continued.)

Now I have written you quite a long letter. It has been written at many different times and I have written hurriedly, just as I write to my own people, hence you must not expect it to be of polished literary style. One favor I want to ask of you, that you please send this letter to Bro. G. B. French at dear old Antioch, so that they, to go, may enjoy (?) with me the experiences of that first night in a "Chinese inn." It takes time from my study when I write, so please be patient if I am not always on time each month with my letters.

Why is Hercules Flour the best on the market?

First: Because it is made from the very best selected wheat.

Second: Because with the improved machinery we have in our mill it is free from dust and dirt. We let the dust collectors eat the dust and give you purer, whiter flour than any on the market.

Third: We have testimonials that will prove to you that it will make better bread, biscuits or cakes than any flour you have ever used. Try one sack and you will be convinced.

SERGEANT SMITH'S SEARCH

Traveled All Over the World But Not Successful Until He Reached Jacksonville.

Sergeant Smith, who is remembered here as having been one of the first to join the Rough Riders, was in town yesterday visiting old friends for the first time in many years. He said that it was odd, but in all his travels, he had never found a good cigar until he went into Armstrong & Armstrong's drug store yesterday, where he bought a Wadsworth Bros. "Chico." Sergeant Smith has smoked Porto Rican cigars, Cuban perfectos and Manila cheroots, but from now on, says he will have nothing but the "Chico" as it is a good, clean cigar with long Havana filler, smoking with a firm ash and a regular 25c fragrance. Armstrong & Armstrong have just secured the local agency for the "Chicos," and want all the smokers of Jacksonville to try them and see if Sergeant Smith is not a good judge of a cigar.

A NOVEL PLAY.

The forthcoming production at the Grand to night is a decidedly novel one. Its significant title, "Wife in Name Only," ought to appeal to all classes of people who like sound moral plays that uplift the public taste instead of degrading it. This new drama paints a powerful picture of modern life. The scenes are laid in the country and the city. The piece is full of startling climaxes, novel scenes, quaint, homely humor and tender pathos, and the stage pictures are beautiful. A brilliant cast of players, including the talented young actor, Mr. Garland Gaden, and the favorite comedienne, Miss Laura Lorraine, together with a number of specialties, are some of the features of this beautiful play.

NOTICE.

For fear that some may misunderstand the relation of the Woman's Club to the old English morality play, "Everyman," which is to appear here Nov. 15, it is announced that there is no financial responsibility to be borne or financial benefit to be derived by the club. The play, however, has the most hearty endorsement of the club.

HE COULD HARDLY GET UP. P. H. Duffy, of Ashley, Ill., writes: "This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and that it has helped me more than any other medicine. I tried many advertised remedies, but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it has cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such shape that I could hardly get up when once down. For sale by J. A. Obermeyer, City Drug Store."

LADIES' AID SOCIETY.

The Ladies' Aid society of Antioch church met Wednesday with Mrs. Charles Mathews on West College street and had an enjoyable time. These good women are faithful workers for the church and society and accomplish much good by their devoted efforts. Their meetings are always seasons of profit and pleasure and are well attended.

TEAM DISBANDED.

After the result of the game played last Saturday with Blackburn college at Carlinville, the Jacksonville Business college team disbanded last evening at the request of the faculty and Manager S. S. Hirschman is compelled to cancel the remaining games of his schedule for the season. In the Blackburn game, Capt. J. E. Boston suffered a dislocation of the left knee and is confined to his bed. J. E. Barnett had his left shoulder dislocated and H. M. Allen had a thumb broken.

THE JOURNAL COMPANY.

Of course everybody knew we should have the much needed rain as soon as Roosevelt and Denen were elected.

A magazine writer suggests that the man who will be president in 1940 is now a lad somewhere in the United States, and wonders what he's doing. That may be difficult to guess, but 't would be safe to bet that he isn't smoking cigarettes, for the cigarette smoker of today will probably be absolutely good for nothing thirty-six years hence.

Galveston is becoming a great ocean port, furnishing evidence that the theory that western products would ultimately seek a gulf rather than a seaboard outlet on the Atlantic was correct. The past year 1,497 vessels cleared from that port, and the value of cargoes in and out amounted to $544,734,000. The wise railroad men are those who have built roads on this theory.

The man who will discover an everlasting roofing compound fortune. Progress has been made along this line, but there is room for improvement. The best of shingles begin to decay when exposed to the elements for fifteen years, while other materials show signs of failure in less time. A leaky roof is a constant annoyance and patching a short lived makeshift.

It is probably a surprise to most people to learn that more than half of the counties below Mason and Dixon's line prohibit the sale of liquor. For instance, almost 60 per cent of Texas, nearly 80 per cent of Georgia, 90 per cent of Mississippi and all of Tennessee except eight cities have voted out the saloon while even in Kentucky forty-seven counties are under prohibition rule. The student of affairs can find food for thought in these facts.

The general result at the polls means that this nation will have four years more of efficient Republican administration says the Inter Ocean. The most important specific result is that the Democratic organizers have been practically wiped off the political map. They have had their chance and they have failed grotesquely to improve it.

The reorganizers have the conservative American Democracy of Jefferson and Jackson and Polk and Cleveland can not win victories for the Democratic party of the twentieth century.

The reorganizers sought to destroy the ideas for which Mr. Bryan stood. They have proved that only those ideas can rouse their party to aggressive enthusiasm.

The reorganizers sought to consign Mr. Bryan to political oblivion. The result of their efforts has been to make Mr. Bryan greater with his party than ever before, and to leave him as the only active Democratic leader of national dimensions.

William Jennings Bryan is still the leader who leads the Democratic party. He stands for radicalism, and radicalism is what the Democratic party wants. It has tried conservatism and ignominiously failed. Henceforth it will be devoted to radicalism, because radical ideas are the only ones that inspire it and give it even the hope of victory.

Therefore it behooves the Republican party to remember, in its hour of victory that it must hereafter confront an opposition not only willing to be radical but even driven to radicalism as its only hope of success.

And it behooves the Republican party to remember that there is nothing so dangerous to its continuance in power as a Democracy sincerely devoted to radicalism—fighting for principles as principles.

A political party is never in such danger as when it seems to itself to be perfectly secure in power through an overwhelming victory. That is the position of the Republican party to day, and unless it sees the truth about its position and takes its measures accordingly, its overthrow is only a question of time.

There is a rising tide of radicalism in this country. The rapid increase of the Socialist vote is an index of its rising. The Socialists are merely the spray that flies before the coming flood of Democratic radicalism.

No stagnant policy will enable the Republican party to face and check that flood. The Republican party can not stand still it must go forward. It must go forward to grasp the new problems of the day and pause not in the solution of them. That has been its past. That ought to be its future.

In a word, the Republican party is put by its victory of Tuesday in a position where it must plan and watch and work as it has not done since it gathered behind Abraham Lincoln to save this nation from disunion.

Everywhere one hears the prediction that Bryan will assume the reins of power and wield them as soon as the party gets the dust rubbed out of its eyes as soon as it gets the power to act safely. If he tries to attract to his standard all the discontented ones as he did in '96 he will find it good time to begin to build right away and the spectacle of him working with Tom Watson and other lights of the party is calculated to make a horse grow merry and yet it will be no laughing matter for all faults and short comings of the Republicans will be charged to them and exaggerated in a thousand ways.

Should Missouri go for Roosevelt, as was announced from Chicago, the surprise would indeed be complete and the people of both parties would begin to inquire where they were anyhow. That the poor old state west of the great river should progress far enough to cast its vote for a Republican president and have it counted seems well nigh incredible, yet the dispatches indicate that very state of things. In the past hundreds of thousands of desirable citizens have gone across Missouri with no more intention of settling within its borders than if it had been the Sahara desert and the reason principally was its bad political record. It harbored the bandits which were the terror of the state and faithfully gave its Democratic majorities right along so that no one from the north thought of making his home there if he had any Republicanism in his veins, and so Kansas, Nebraska and other states beyond profited by the unfortunate state of things. It seems as if new conditions were about to dawn for the state so rich in material wealth and so cursed by a party which keeps it perpetually from attaining its best results. The official count will be awaited with interest and should the forecast prove true the rejoicing will indeed be great.

The Hearst and Bryan people seemed to be true to their Democracy and vote the straight ticket, somewhat under protest, just as Parker cast his ballots for Bryan in '36 and 1900, but their efforts to look back over the result and shed a few tears was a dismal failure. It wouldn't work no matter how hard it was tried.

SENIOR, JUNIOR AND SOCIETY.

The words "senior" and "junior" are rapidly going out of date in fashionable society in Gotham. These surnames have never been popular in England, the country that New York patterns a good deal after, and for the last couple of years there has been a perceptible dropping of the "Sr." and "Jr." from cards here. After much discussion it has been generally conceded that the senior members of families of the same name shall be called Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so and that the next in line of the same name shall be called Mr. and Mrs. John Smith or whatever the family name may be. To speak of "Mrs. Smith" means that that lady is the acknowledged head of the female side of the house. She also takes precedence in social affairs.

Australian Mine 3,900 Feet Deep.

What is believed to be the deepest gold mine in the world is being worked at Bendigo, Australia. The mine in question, which is called the New Chum Railway mine, has sunk its main shaft to a depth of 3,900 feet, or only sixty feet short of three-quarters of a mile. The chief problem is how to keep the tunnels and general workings cool enough for the miners to work in at such a depth. It is usually about 108 degrees, and to enable the men to work at all a spray of cold water let down from above has to be kept continually playing on the bodies—naked from the waist upward—of the miners. Even then they cannot work hard, or they would faint from exhaustion.—Leisure Hour.

For Rheumatism. Sufferers from rheumatism should dress entirely in woolen clothing and dust the inside of their clothing with flour of sulphur. They should abstain from taking beer, acids, sweets, sugar or pastry, but should take plenty of milk, celery stewed in milk or prepared in other ways and onions. They should rub the joints at night and morning with a brine of salt, rubbing it in until the skin is dry.

The Sewing Machine. When a sewing machine runs hard oil it all over with kerosene and sew awhile, or run the machine without sewing, to allow the oil to reach every crevice. Wipe away all the kerosene, and oil again with some good machine oil. The machine will seem like a new one, it will run so much easier.

An emergency ration, packed in a small two compartment cylinder of tin, is carried in the haversack of every British soldier. As its name suggests, the ration is not to be used except in case of the direst necessity. One compartment holds four ounces of cocoa paste and the other a similar quantity of concentrated beef. If consumed in small quantities it will maintain strength for many hours.

Ruled by Women. Tiburon, an island in the gulf of California, is ruled entirely by women. The inhabitants are a remnant of the Sevis tribe of Indians, formerly numbering about 5,000, but now shrunken to a few hundreds. They live in almost complete isolation and refuse to marry any of the Indians of the mainland. The woman is head of the household, and a council of matrons conducts public affairs.

Schools for Fishermen. There are now in Belgium four schools for the instruction of fishermen. The pupils are taught how to read weather charts, how to make the best use of currents, what the bottom of the sea is like, how to make their own nets, how to manage a boat in a storm, how to use the latest inventions in the line of fishing apparatus, etc. There are about 250 pupils now in these schools.

RAILROAD NEWS NOTES

Burlington Surveyors at Work on Hill South of City—Alton Issues Passes.

Wabash engine No. 777 went through light yesterday at 1st No. 9. It was bound for the west to pick up the freight left along the line.

The Wabash section gang was working on the Church street crossing yesterday, preparatory to raising the track slightly.

The Burlington passenger train No. 18 was about three hours late yesterday. The delay was caused by the lateness of the train on the main line which connects with the local line.

Charles Freitag shipped a car load of sheep over the C. & A. to St. Louis Wednesday. The car was attached to train No. 87.

The C. P. & St. L. are at work on their tracks near the freight depot. They are laying heavier rails for the use of the heavy freight trains.

The Burlington official car passed through the city Wednesday southward bound.

The C. P. & St. L. brought the "Wang" company into the city Wednesday.

A party of Burlington surveyors are at work on the tracks in and around the city. The company is in charge of A. W. Newton. The object is to straighten the curves in the track between the freight depot and the place commonly called the "hill," which is about one and one-half miles south of the city. The change will be a great benefit to the train employees, as they will not have to be always watching the curve when they have a heavy load.

The Chicago & Alton has announced that it will issue a number of employee passes during the month of November. The issue of these passes was stopped August 1, while yet some of the employees had not had a chance to see the fair.

The United States Steel corporation has closed a contract with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad for steel material to be used in the construction of a new line in the west, involving several million dollars. It is probably the largest contract of the kind given by any of the railroads for material for next year's work. The exact contract price is not given out.

President Eugene Zimmerman of the C. H. & D. Marquette system—has a new private car that has just been turned out of the Peru Marquette shops at Muskegon, Mich. The car President Zimmerman has been using is to be put through the shops, when it will be assigned to the use of General Manager Edson.

LEGISLATIVE TICKET.
The following are the unofficial returns on the legislative ticket:

Sagamont county—Heintz (Rep.), 14,307; Fetzer (Rep.), 14,020; Lorton (Dem.), 10,858; Winterbottom (Dem.), 10,758.

MATRIMONIAL

LEWIS-SUNDERLAND.
C. W. Lewis, of Collinsville, I. T., and Miss Nellie Sunderland, of Dallas, Texas, were married Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Park hotel, Squire Reid officiating.

TO AN OLD FRIEND.

To Rev. P. J. Lyons, pastor of St. Patrick's church, Franklin, Ill.—My Dear Sir: Allow an old friend to congratulate you on the grand results of your speech on the evening of Oct. 28. The election returns indicate to a certainty that the voters heeded your good advice to help Mrs. Roosevelt. Your friend,
M. J. Clerihan.

READ DAILY JOURNAL; 100 WEEK

ROMANCE OF OLD HOMESTEAD

Denman Thompson had Planned to Celebrate Golden Wedding on Real "Old Homestead."

Mrs. Denman Thompson, wife of the actor-author who gave to the state "The Old Homestead," died recently at the Thompson country home, near West Swanzy, N. H., in the neighborhood of which most of the idyllic scenes of the famous play are laid. Mrs. Thompson was 66 years old. She had been in failing health for several months, but it was not until two weeks ago that her condition became serious.

In two more months Mr. and Mrs. Thompson would have celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. They had long planned for the event, which was to have been celebrated on the old homestead where the play first took shape in the mind of the "real actor-author, and where, from their own daily lives Mr. and Mrs. Thompson drew the inspiration and the scenes for the homely representation of rural life that has made hundreds of thousands alternately laugh and weep.

The play grew from a simple sketch and Mrs. Thompson was an invaluable aid to her husband throughout the work of building it into the famous play. She had never been an actress herself, but she knew the stage, and combined with that knowledge a hearty sympathy with the simple folk, among whom she and her husband had cast their lot.

In a great old-fashioned farm house at West Swanzy, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson labored together. From out of their lives they drew the experience, from among their friends they drew the characters, setting down naught in malice, but everything with simple fidelity to the truth.

The Old Homestead was the home of the Thompsons at West Swanzy, the back drop in the farm scene is an exact reproduction of the view across the open fields to the hills behind the actor's home. Thompson was born not far away from there, and Mrs. Thompson came from a town not far across the hills.—New York American.

AT THE GRAND

De Wolf Hopper in "Wang" Greeted With Large and Delighted Audience Wednesday Evening—Artistic Presentation.

The ever popular "Wang" was given a splendid presentation at the Grand Wednesday evening before a delighted audience. With De Wolf Hopper in the title role, Marguerite Clark as the crown prince, Sabry D'Orell as "Marie" and a well balanced cast the production is one of artistic merit. The part of the regent of Siam was originated by Hopper and the opera itself is among the few comic productions written by American authors that has achieved marked financial success.

Mr. Hopper, whose personal popularity seems to increase with the passing years, was greeted with marked favor last evening and in the early part of the second act, where Wang, Mataya and Francisco have a mirth-provoking skit that is extremely clever, the demands of the large audience were not satisfied with four encores, but gave Mr. Hopper a distinct personal ovation and in response he recited, as only he can recite, the familiar "Casey at the Bat."

The solo by Sabry D'Orell, sung after the opening chorus in the second act, was also received with hearty appreciation and she was twice recalled. The soloist has a voice of unusual sweetness and her tones are remarkably pure. Ada Deaves was a decided success as the widow, while Frank Casey as Papat and Frank Belcher as Francisco gave splendid interpretations of their parts.

The opera is gorgeously staged and the sartorial splendor is magnificent. The scenic equipment is adequate and the performance in its entirety is one that gives eminent satisfaction.

To night, "Wife in Name Only."

EGYPTA TO MORROW NIGHT.

To morrow night the representative people of Jacksonville will through the opera house for the first p of Egypt. It is doubtful if many cities of equal size could produce a solo act better adapted to the requirements of the various roles of the opera. As "Pharaoh's Daughter" Mrs. Clara Robbins Russell lends to the part all the gracious, tender dignity one unconsciously ascribes to this oriental princess. The "Mother of Moses" is delightfully portrayed by Mrs. Louise F. Short, whose sympathetic voice is especially suited to the music written for the heart broken Israelite mother.

"Miriam, the Prophetess," that grandest of all Biblical women, is dramatically interesting as delineated by Miss Mary Brown Tanner. Had the original Zipporah been only half so charming as her latter day representative, Miss Corinne Musgrove, one could not wonder that Moses loved her so loyally. One of the most pleasing roles is that of the Messenger Angel and the violin and harp accompaniment to the song blends admirably with the fresh, clear voice of Miss Bertha L. Anderson.

SEEING THE FAIR IN DETAIL

The Cook Robin Tragedy as Seen at the Big Exposition—A Lesson in Wood Testing That is Worth While For Vehicle Buyers to Know—How the Tereido of Southern Waters Destroys Unprotected Engineering Works of Wood—The Method of Crocinating to Prevent Its Ravages—Beetles No Bigger Than Punctuation Marks That Destroy Great Forest Trees—New York Proud of Her Fruit Growing.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE BY MARK BENNETT.)

The details of that famous tragedy by which a certain cock robin met his death, as narrated in the nursery books, have never been given so graphically to the public as now at the world's fair. The whole affair is made as plain as day by an expert taxidermist who has assembled all the birds concerned in that sorrowful event, even to the murderer. Even if the murderer had not confessed under the sweating process, after the manner of William Desmond, his habits would have caused suspicion to point strongly toward him. As seen in the bird setting in the glass case in the Mississippi exhibit of the Palace of Forestry, Fish and Game the sparrow is dressed in the garb of savagery, wearing a cap with gay feather and carrying a hunter's equipment of bow and arrows. The air of bravado has not left him, even in the presence of accusers and mourners. It was not a case of circumstantial evidence, for on top of the confession here is the one-eyed fly that saw him die, but no motive is shown for the murder. The fish with the little dish of the victim's blood completes the chain of evidence. If that link were needed, Cock Robin lies in a white velvet coffin, wrapped in the shroud made by the beetle with its thread and needle. The owl is on hand with spade and shovel to fulfill the promise to dig the grave. The rook with his little book officiates as parson and the lark as the clerk to see that the death is properly recorded. It fell to the kite, not being in the night to carry him to the grave and the lark to carry the torch. The dove is chief mourner, and the thrush sings from the bush the favorite psalm. The widow of the deceased is heavily veiled and leans upon the arm of a near relative. The bull, who can pull, tolls the bell which very conveniently hangs in a tree. All the birds of the forest are present with as much curiosity as the crowd at a state funeral, and the solemnity of the scene has a touching influence.

Barring certain schoolboy prejudices against young hickory, it cannot be denied that it has admirable qualities. Years change the points of view. Second growth hickory is the king of woods in vehicle construction, and every test proves it. Here are results of two tests in the Palace of Forestry, Fish and Game at the western end of the great building. In the twisting test it split into a thousand fibers till it looked like a piece of rope, but it didn't break. In the bending test it resisted 27,800 pounds to the inch, with only a start to break. Black hickory ranks next and bitternut or pignut third. The wood of the red gum cracked as if it had no fiber with but half the pressure the hickory withstood.

The tereido is a form of sea life in warm regions that looks like a bit of soap with just enough consistency to hold together, but it can make greater havoc with timber works in a few months than ordinary decay can in years. It has been the custom to treat timbers for piling and dock construction with creosote and other preservatives. The exhibit of woods that have been treated with preservatives in contrast with those that have not is an eye opener to those who may not know what money saving results follow the saturation of the wood with preserving fluids. The tereido consists principally of a drill point composed of lime as large around as a wheat stalk. Biting in tereido colonies forbid that one tereido shall burrow through the walls of another tereido's tunnel. He may come as close as he pleases, but at least the thickness of tissue paper shall remain as a separating wall. A heavy pile of foot and a half through will be honeycombed by a tereido colony below the water line within a twelvemonth. Crocinating completely prevents their attacks. The process of crocinating is ingenious and interesting to those who may not know how it is done. Timbers are piled in quantity upon specially built cars and run into a strong cylinder that may be sealed at both ends. The timber is treated so that all the juices and gums of the wood may be loosened and then the air is exhausted almost to the thinness of a vacuum. In this manner the pores of the wood are opened and freed of water and gums, leaving little else but fiber. The creosote is then allowed to enter the cylinder and is drawn into the very centers of the timbers by the pressure due to the vacuum. In the southern cities the crocinating of timbers for marine engineering construction is an important industry. In the mining gulch at the world's fair the process of crocinating may be seen, and in the western end of the Palace of Forestry, Fish and Game the examples of tereido work and timber treatment may be studied.

Another little study in forestry is that of the beetles, some of them as big as a dot. Everything that grows, particularly the useful things

WAR SPIRIT IN JAPAN

Its Remarkable Hold Upon the Whole Nation.

SCHOOLS ARE DRILLING THE BOYS

Hundreds of Children, Some Barely Able to Walk, Parade the Streets Dressed in Uniform, Says Stanley Washburn—Japan's Aim Is to Expel From Far East Every Influence but Its Own.

To the casual observer the Japanese are unemotional and self-contained and seeing them for the first time it is impossible to realize the fierce determination and vigor that lie beneath the surface, says Stanley Washburn, the special correspondent of the Chicago News, writing from Yokohama. The war has taken hold of them to the very core of their being and it seems that no matter what a man be or how engaged his first thought is of the war and its outcome, the martial spirit is drilled into the children from their earliest years, and it would seem that the desire to fight and die for the emperor and Japan is the highest aim a man can have.

The schools are drilling the boys and in every way infusing in them the spirit which is inspiring the men at the front today. I have seen literally hundreds of children, many of them under five years and some barely able to walk, dressed in uniforms and parading the street. Here an embryonic rear admiral in full uniform, with sword and gold lace galore, toddles along beside an even tinier youngster dressed as a hussar or artillery officer, and together they shout the words that they have been taught, but which it is impossible to believe they can understand. One Sunday I saw fully twenty companies of these little chaps in different parts of the town and all as serious and intent on the one great object of glorifying the emperor and "Nippon" as are their fathers and brothers at the front.

Not only in Yokohama and the big cities are these to be observed, but in the most remote and unpretentious villages one sees the same. It is almost uncanny at times when one is far from the haunts of men among the fields and mountains of this beautiful country to come on a quaint little village to all intents beyond the influences of this savage war and be greeted by a band of toddlers, with nothing on perhaps but a shirt and the inevitable toy sword, with cries of "Banzai, banzai!" given with a will that augurs ill to the future enemies of Japan. No matter how far away one may get it is always the same. A few days ago as I was following along a dusty road far away from Tokyo among the green dale hills of the Hakone range I met five or six little fellows marching down the road singing a rude chant. "What is it they are singing?" you ask and are promptly told, "It is a war song that they have learned." War, war, war—from one end of the country to the other—it is everything to these people. With all their progress and many attainments, they have so far reverted to the primitive that every other emotion and idea seems to have been swallowed up in the one great passion of war for the empire and glory to their emperor. Every week spent in Japan strengthens one's impressions of this underlying current which is working in this people, and one cannot but wonder what the end will be. Will this all-subside when Russia is conquered? Will these children, boys and men that are growing up among such influences and being inspired with this one great idea, willingly turn their hands to the pursuits of peace?

The editor of a well-known paper said to me the other day in a burst of enthusiasm in reply to my observation that Japan, if victorious, might soon be the greatest power in the east, his eyes sparkling as he eagerly leaned across the table, "Yes, the east certainly, and why not the whole world?" This, of course, expresses an idea far beyond any definite policy, but it shows but too truly what the Japanese, to himself at least, is dreaming of as the final outcome of his progress and civilization. There is reason to believe that this war is but the beginning of wars, conventions and discussions over a new far eastern question, which shall never be settled until the race which we cheer on and patronizingly call "the little brown men" have driven out or suppressed every influence other than their own from the Orient.

It is for such a supremacy, enforced if necessary by twelve inch guns and a million bayonets, that these little brown children we have seen all over Japan are being trained, and it is this that their toy swords, miniature uniforms and marchings about with their childish cries of "Banzai!" eventually pressages.

Societies and associations have been organized in Japan to relieve the families of the fighting men, and every one makes certain contributions to the relief fund, says Nishigaki Amenomori in the Atlantic for October. Some men contribute money or goods and some their labor. Little boys and girls willingly forego their daily sweets and give the small moneys thus saved to the relief societies. Even some of the criminals working in prisons have made several applications to contribute their earnings to the funds, though their wishes have not been complied with. In every village a compact has been made that those remaining at home should look after the farms of those at the front, so that their families may not be disappointed of the usual crops. Thus the hardships of the war are cheerfully borne.

CONDENSED STORIES.

When Ingalls Turned His Sarcastic on Senator Hoar.

The late Senator Hoar was a great stickler for the forms and courtesies of the senate as applied to others, but was more frequent with his violation of them than any of his colleagues, says the Chicago Tribune. He had a habit of lecturing the senate on the proprieties, and this, too, caused a feeling of resentment. The brilliant Ingalls, whose wit and sarcasm often encountered those of Mr. Hoar, was not friendly to the

TAINTED BLOOD

Some four years ago, I was suffering from impure blood and a general run down condition of the system. I had no appetite, was losing flesh, and had an all-gone tired feeling that made me miserable. I began the use of S. S. S., and after taking several bottles my skin was cleared of all eruptions and took on a ruddy, healthy glow that assured me that my blood had been restored to its normal, healthy condition. My appetite was restored, as I could eat anything put before me, and as I regained my appetite I increased in weight, and that "tired feeling" which worried me so much disappeared, and I was once again myself. I heartily recommend S. S. S. as the best blood purifier and tonic made, and strongly advise its use to all those in need of such medicine. VICTOR STRUBBINS, Cor. Barthman and Washington Aves.

Wheeling, W. V., May 28, 1903.

My system was run down and my joints ached and pained me considerably. I had used S. S. S. before, and knew what it was, so I purchased a bottle of it and have taken several bottles and the aches and pains are gone, my blood has been cleared and my general health built up. I can testify to it as a blood purifier and tonic. 1533 Market St. JOHN C. STEIN.

The Boy Patriot.

During the American tour of the Irish poet, W. B. Yeats, an instructor of the University of Pennsylvania said of him at a dinner in Philadelphia:

"Mr. Yeats, even as a child, was intensely patriotic. At school one day his teacher read to the class Macaulay's 'Horatius' and at the end of the reading said:

"Would three soldiers nowadays be likely to hold a bridge against a whole army?"

"No, sir," said the class.

"Would three Englishmen, for example?" the teacher continued.

"No, indeed," cried the boys.

"Would three Irishmen?"

"Yeats jumped to his feet. His eyes flashed.

"One Irishman," he said, "would do it."

Didn't Want Them Panned. Mrs. Ballington Booth tells of an incident in one of her rescue missions, says the New York Times. She was putting a little waif in bed, folding new clothes and teaching her a childish prayer. "Now, follow me," said Mrs. Booth, "and say as I say:

"Now I lay me down to sleep." The child repeated the words.

"I pray thee, God, my soul to keep," continued the missionary. "I pray thee, God, my clothes to keep," was the version of the child. "No, not clothes, my child. I'll take care of your clothes." The little girl jumped to her feet in terror. "But won't you pawn them?" she asked. "That's what they always do at home when I have new clothes."

"EGYPT'S SPLENDOR"

The following paragraph from a review of "Egypt," clipped from a Worcester (Mass.) paper, does not exaggerate the charm of the quaint old story of the opera as told in scenery and song: "Like the perfumed breath of a south-land zephyr, laden with incense and the melody of birds; like the fair memory of a perfect day in June, was the performance of the Egyptian last night."

So adequate are the stage settings of the opera and so faithfully do the costumes reproduce the magnificence of ancient Egypt that the audience are carried in imagination back through the countless centuries and placed amidst the glories of the court of Pharaoh. In fancy they wander among the lotus blooms and palms that border the shimmering Nile, and in the company of black-robed priests grope through the depths of the catacombs.

Hundreds of Jacksonville's most gifted young people will take part in the opera to-morrow night.

Court of Honor to Adjust Rates
—Boy Injured at Kinderhook
—Lincoln Mystery.

Springfield—A call went out from national headquarters in this city Wednesday morning for a special session of the supreme court of the Court of Honor to be held in Springfield, Wednesday, Dec. 7. The call specifies three subjects for the meeting to discuss, the first two being of relatively small importance compared with the third, which provides for the consideration of the question of equalizing the assessment rates. The call comes unexpectedly by the rank and file of this prosperous order, though it is not by any means the result of hasty action by the officers. Far-seeing members have realized for some time that this order, as others of its character have done, must sooner or later meet and solve the question of rates, but few have known that it went out Wednesday signed by every supreme officer.

Barry—Carl Guthrie, the son of B. C. Guthrie, who lives in the northwest part of this township, met with a serious accident at Kinderhook Tuesday forenoon. He had been in Barry Monday and Tuesday morning where he tried to jump onto a gravel train in motion. He lost his balance and fell and a wheel ran over his right foot, crushing it badly. Dr. Main was called to attend the injured man and he amputated the leg about half way between the ankle and knee.

Peoria—A private conference was held by the independent distillers and the present whisky war was discussed. At its conclusion a statement was issued as follows:

"The trust is now operating in the United States three distilleries with a capacity of 16,000 bushels, and the independents are operating eighteen plants with a total capacity of 50,000 bushels. The trust has a considerable accumulation of goods manufactured from 50-cent corn, while the independents have no accumulation and are manufacturing their goods from 43-cent corn. One year ago the trust was operating five houses, with a total capacity of 33,000 bushels. The independents declare from this showing they have the best of the present fight, which is being energetically waged."

Lincoln—Mrs. Frank Sisson, of this city, left early Tuesday morning for Natchua, having been informed about 8 o'clock Monday night that her brother, J. A. Myers, of that place, had been found dead near Springfield, and that it was thought that he had been murdered. Mr. Myers had for sixteen years been an engineer in a grain elevator at Natchua. Recently he went to Missouri to buy mules with which to stock a farm and his sons had purchased and intended managing. He was coming home overland, when he was set upon near Springfield by four men and murdered. The body of Mr. Myers was suspended to a tree to make believe that he had committed suicide. It is reported that two of the murderers with the mules have been captured and are in jail at Pekin.

Delavan—John Davidson, who lives southwest of Delavan, joined the posse from San Jones, who were out after a supposed murderer and mule thief. The fellow, who was captured in Pekin Monday night, had passed the Davidson home Monday afternoon, driving two mules to the wagon with four following. Mr. Davidson and the other searchers were all armed and followed the track of the mules and wagon across the Mackinaw and had arrived nearly to Dillon town at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning, when they heard that the thief had been caught in Pekin. He had with him when he reached Pekin a bay, who was not with him when he passed the Davidson home.

Charles Norton, of Harness, to whom the mules belonged, had sent his man, Abe Myers, of Mason City, to St. Charles, Mo., to get them. They had been worked by his father, Frank Norton, this season on the farm near that place owned by W. R. Baldwin, of this city, and the mules were being brought home for the winter. Mr. Norton heard some time Monday afternoon that his man Myers had been found dead, hanging to a telephone pole, south of Springfield, and that the man who was captured and whom it is thought started from St. Charles with Mr. Myers, had fed the mules in a livery barn in Springfield and was on his way north.

The above table shows the vote of Morgan county as to party in every presidential election since it was organized. Previous to 1904 the largest plurality ever given for president was in 1856, when James Buchanan carried the county by 693. The first time the Republican party carried the county was in 1872, when Grant's plurality over Greeley was 314. Cleveland carried the county in 1892 by a plurality of 535. In 1896 the plurality of McKinley was 4 and in 1900 it was 20. Roosevelt's plurality in 1904 is 865.

DEATH RECORD

DOBYNS.

John Bristow Dobyns, an old and highly respected resident of this city, died suddenly at his home on West State street Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, of senile pneumonia. Mr. Dobyns was born in Bourbon county, Kentucky, Oct. 7, 1825, and in 1857 came to Jacksonville, where he formed a partnership with his brother, Thomas Dobyns, in the shoe business. He was always known as a man of upright character, and one who bore the good will of all. His active business life ended several years ago, and since that time he has lived a quiet life at his home on West State street.

In the Mexican war, Mr. Dobyns served his country well, being always a patriotic citizen and one who was at all times loyal to his country. He was one of the few survivors of the memorable conflict residing in Morgan county.

Deceased is survived by his wife and four children, as follows: James H. J. Stewart, Harry D. and Mary H. Dobyns. One son, Thomas T. Dobyns, died in infancy. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. William Buford, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Michael Quinn was arrested by Policemen Deatherage, Trahey and Fernandes for drunkenness.

Oswald Jenkins was arrested by Policeman Trahey on a state warrant for assault on Susie Majors and was fined $3 and costs.

EXPOSED TO SMALLPOX.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 9.—J. Frank Hanley, governor-elect of Indiana, is confined to his home, having been exposed to smallpox Sunday. He will not leave the house until he is sure he has not contracted the disease.

Municipal Pawnbroking.

Municipal pawnshops are projected for London. It is said to be possible at present for a London pawnbroker to extort 200 per cent a year for a loan.

On the continent the law gives the poor borrower on personal property ample protection. It is possible in France, as at Grenoble or Montpellier, to obtain a very small advance for a short time without paying any interest at all for it, as the municipal Mont de Piete possesses endowments for that purpose, but in Paris 7 per cent is the usual charge. At Madrid it is 6 per cent, in Brussels 7 per cent and in Berlin 12 per cent for the year.

Unmarried.

It is not often that the stage aspirant manages to reach the office of Wells Hawkes, who is the right hand man of Charles Frohman. Of course it was a woman who did the trick the other day. She apparently created a fair impression, for the generally busy Mr. Hawkes asked her, "Are you married or unmarried?" as he prepared to book her application. "Unmarried four times," was the reply that startled the placid manager.

AFTERNOON COMPANY.

Mrs. James O. Vossler was the hostess at a delightful sewing given at her home in Turner Place Wednesday afternoon. The decorations were simple, but most artistically arranged and the company was one of great social pleasure. Delicate refreshments were served.

Mrs. Vossler was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. A. T. Bartlett, of Virden; Mrs. R. M. Wilson, of St. Louis; Miss Anson, of Merrill, Wis.; Mrs. F. J. Andrews, Mrs. Edward Fairbank and Mrs. C. E. Dickson.

KEEP YOUR HEAD UNCOVERED.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propagates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once become infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.
